Day - 2

→ Communication is a complex process through which we express, interpret, and co-ordinate messages with others.

→ We do so to create shared meaning, to meet social goals, to manage personal identity, and to carry out our relationship in informal conversation, group interaction, or public speaking.

Essential Elements:

- Participants (who) → Persons in which there is communication.
- Messages (what) (encoding / decoding) (creating / interpreting)
- Content (where) →
- Channel (how) →
- Interference (distraction) → give complete information
- Feedback (Organization) →
